The bureau of statistics in its report of exports of breadstuff in August, shows that the exports last month exceeded those of August, 1890, more than $18,000,000 in the St. Paul, Minn., electric raliroad line. It was first erroneously stated that five per-sons were killed. Two people were serious

Two cars belonging to John Robinson's circus were wrecked on a side track near Washington, Pa., Saturday morning. The cars were filed with employes and the escape from death was almost a miracle. As it was, an actreas was probably fatally injured and four men badly hurt. The accident was caused by a broken brake beam. A Tacoma, Wash., dispatch says:
"There is at present a well grounded belief that great subterranean free are raging under this section of the country, not far from the surface of the earth. Within the past two weeks four distinct shocks of earthquake have been felt, and each instance the range of tremors has been wide enough to extend into Oregon." The N. Y. Herald has the following special, from Valparsiao, dated Sat-urday. "Ex-President Balmaceda of Chili shot himself through the temple in his shot himself through the temple in his room at the Argentine legation in Santiago at half-past 8 A. M., to-day. The body was warm when found. Every part of the city this evening is brilliantly illuminated, and on every hand is heard sounds of rejoicing."

An attorney for parties unknown has paid to the State National Bank of Boston $18,180 as "conscience money." The extent of the lawyer's knowledge of the case is, that he was told that a man on his death is, that he was told that a mish on his death bed ordered the money paid to the bank. The only clue the bank has is that in 1865 a bag of gold containing $3000 was stolen from the cashier's desk while his back was turned. This amonat taken at its premium value at that time and with luterest comnded, figures just about the sum returnpounded, figures just about the sum returned to the bank.

Frank Clergue, President of the Bank of Maine, Bangor, and his brother, H. V. Clergue of New York, on Tuesday, at Mobile, Ala., organized the Mobile Trust Company with $500,000 capital, to do trust and general banking business. The Clergues were attracted there by the growth and improvements of the city. After spending several weeks investigating the situation and finding Mobileans have confidence enough to invest one fifth of the capital required, they put in the remainder, and will besides erect a large building for the accommodations of the company.

An efflgy of Principal Fish, who went to Exeter, N. H., from Auburn, Me., was, on Saturday night, hung across Front street, in Exeter, directly before the academy. It was life-size, and attached to the feet was the representation of a fish. Several inscriptions were displayed, among them "Pro bono publico, P. A. Fish," and one particularly insuting. It is believed that very recent alumni and not present students are responsible for the outrage. Many believe that the selectmen should ofter a liberal reward for the offenders' apprehension. important bank robbery has taken piace in the city. The police and bank officials are trying to keep the matter as quiet as possible, so the entire facts in the case are not obtainable at present. It is known that the institution which has suidired is the London and Westminster Bank (Liulited), 41 Lothbury, E. C., an important establishment, having more than fifty branch houses in the city. The money stolen aconsisted of a large parcel of bills remitted from country banks to the London and Westminster Bank. The thief or theyers must have cleverly watched for the proper opportunity to accomplish the robbery and gained access to an apartment near the main entrance to the bank. In this apartment, easy to access from the street, the parcel of bills is supposed to have been stolen while the bank officials were basily engaged in another apartment. William Astley, town manager of the bank, and H. F. Billinghurst, country manager, decline to make any statements for publication as to the actual loss incurred by the London and Westminister Bank. It is currently reported that the amount stolen is not less than $250,000, and may amount to $1,250,000. 000. The bank officers, the city police authorities and the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard are putting forth their utmost exertions to effect the capture of the thieves.

To be excitious in the choice of medicines. Many are injured by trying experiments with compounds purporting to be blood-purifiers, the principal recommendation of which would seem to be their "cheapmen." Being made up of worthless, though not always harmless, ingrydients, they may well be "cheap;" but, in the end, they are dear. The most reliable medicines are costly, and can be retailed at moderate prices, only when the manufacturing chemist handles the raw materials in large quantities. It is economy, therefore,

A capital idea is taking form in one of the old hill towns of Connecticut, in the is to improve the roads, and in every way beautify the general appearance of the romantic old hill-tops, already famous for the scenic beauty of their broad views, and their invigorating atmosphere. On these hills are fine farms, grand old homes full of historic interest, and written over with reminiscences, linking the past with the ize them than desert to forest growth as many thoughtlessly are advocating. The Largest Creamery Enterprise in the World, Consolidation is the order of the day in business. Through it the purpose is to facilitate the transaction of business, encourage labor and reduce cost. To what extent this modern idea can be applied to farming has not yet been fully determined. There are thinking men, engaged in the study of agricultural affairs, who can see many ways in which this lever of success can be made to lift a measure of the burdens of labor and of cost from the products

An opportunity was recently made to visit and closely inspect the Franklin County (Vermont) Creamery, located at St. Albans, and we take this opportunity to give the readers of the Farmer a description ing to carry out. St. Albans is a center of an extensive dairy business, carried on in a district located in the northwestern quarter of the State of Vermont, and bordering on Lake Champlain. Formerly, private dairy-ing was the order in all this section, and on a stated day, known as "market day," dairymen from all the country round about came into town with their make of butter to sell to the Boston buyers, who as regularly came down all the way from Boston to meet them. It does not take half a busi-ness eye to see the great waste of time, which ought to be money, and the conse-quent expense of carrying on business in this way. Butter factories were introduced at various points, and finally, separators for creaming the milk. These were a great advance over the individual work, and of course reduced cost of both manufacturing and selling, besides greatly improving the quality of the product. But why stop here? If concentration of effort and consolidation of business can re-duce the cost of manufacture and sell the product for more money, why not carry it to the extreme of practicability, and thus secure still better results, and give the pro-ducers still greater advantages? The idea took shape in the organization of the Franklin County Creamery Association, with ex-Governor J. Gregory Smith, President, and T. M. Deal, Business Manager, and the erection and equipment, at St. Albans, of the largest creamery in the world. The plan contemplates a central factory for the manufacture and shipping of the entire product, and the establishment of separator stations at points in the country convenient to the farmers and to means of transportation, where the milk is gathered, and the cream separated and taken to the central factory, while the skim milk is left to the farmers who made it.

The building erected for the central fac-tory is 177 feet long by 45 feet wide, two tories in height, with a basement and attic | additional. This factory is located on a tirun along side, and load or unload from the in platform on a level with the first floor. A the capacious elevator runs to the upper floor. A The basement, used for general storage, a contains the engine and boiler, and the butter-milk tank, which has a capacity of a 1800 gallons. The first floor is divided into T eight compartments, including separator room, churn room, butter-working room,
